

EXTRA ASTOR CLINGS TO HIS AMERICAN "SOIL."

He Declines to Sell His Real Estate in New York City to a Syndicate at a Good Figure.

Congressman Levy Returns to Report the Failure of His Mission to the English Subject.

Though This Country Is Not Good Enough for the Expatriated Millionaire, Its Gold Is Still Acceptable.

William Waldorf Astor has no idea of selling his property in America, even though he has shaken from his feet forever all other American soil.

Congressman Jefferson M. Levy, arriving from Europe yesterday on the Umbria, told a Journal reporter of the failure of his expedition plan to purchase Mr. Astor's real estate, the value of which has been curiously estimated at $120,000,000.

"I feel certain that Mr. Astor, since he did not accept my offer, will accept no other," said Mr. Levy. "So it's no use trying to buy him out."

"Our offer was not a proposition of a certain sum for all his holdings. It was to take all the property at a valuation to be fixed by appraisers to be appointed by Mr. Astor and myself."

"We proposed to sell the property in turn to the people of New York City through a stock company to be organized. It was a good chance for an investment, and the public would have benefited by it, but Mr. Astor's refusal blocks that plan."

"Harry Morgenthau, who, I understand, is on his way over to make Mr. Astor a proposal, might just as well have stayed at home."

"Mr. Levy, it appears, did not deal directly with Mr. Astor, as was gathered from a remark that he was 'sure that Mr. Astor received and considered my proposal.'"

"Mr. Levy declined to talk politics, but spoke freely of the business and financial outlook. 'I am a bull on general principles,' he said."

"Everything points to a continued reign of prosperity."

"There may be civil war in France, but the effect of such a disturbance on this country is discounted, and that can be said as well as the unfavorable effect of a war in South Africa, if it should come to that."

MYSTERY IN THE DEATH OF A YOUNG WOMAN.

Grace Barroway, of Canton, Ohio, Was Brought to St. Vincent's Hospital After an Operation.

The Coroner's office was notified yesterday that Grace Barroway, aged twenty-seven years had died in St. Vincent's Hospital under circumstances that required investigation. Coroner's Physician Dr. Donlin learned at the hospital that her death occurred on Friday morning at 7 o'clock.

Dr. Leysman, who had been attending her since her admission, on Wednesday night, had signed a certificate of death from blood poisoning, but this certificate was rejected by the Board of Health. The body had already been embalmed, but Dr. Donlin made an autopsy and discovered that the death was due to an operation.

The woman was brought to the hospital in a coach, accompanied by two women friends, who gave her name and said she lived at No. 164 West Twenty-second street, but that she had no relatives in this city. Her parents, she said, lived in Canton, Ohio. They said she was employed as a saleswoman in a department store in Sixth avenue.

Dr. Donlin left orders that the body should not be removed until Coroner Fitzpatrick had viewed it.

COLUMBIA, ONCE A SPANISH CRUISER, IS NOW IN PORT.

She Was an Auxiliary in Camara's Squadron, But Is Once Again a Hamburg-American Liner.

After one year's service as a Spanish auxiliary cruiser the Hamburg-American liner Columbia has returned to the peaceful ways of a transatlantic passenger vessel. Her arrival here Friday marked her first trip from Hamburg on the old route since the war.

The Columbia and the Normanna, of the Hamburg Line, were sold early in 1898 by the Hamburg Line to Moss & Co., London ship brokers, and by them disposed of to the Compania Transatlantica Espanola. That line turned the vessels over to the Spanish Government.

They were used for auxiliary cruisers in Admiral Camara's squadron, and accompanied the squadron to Suez when Camara was ordered to recapture the Philippines and sink Dewey's squadron.

WAKEMAN RETAINED; HIS ASSISTANT REMOVED.

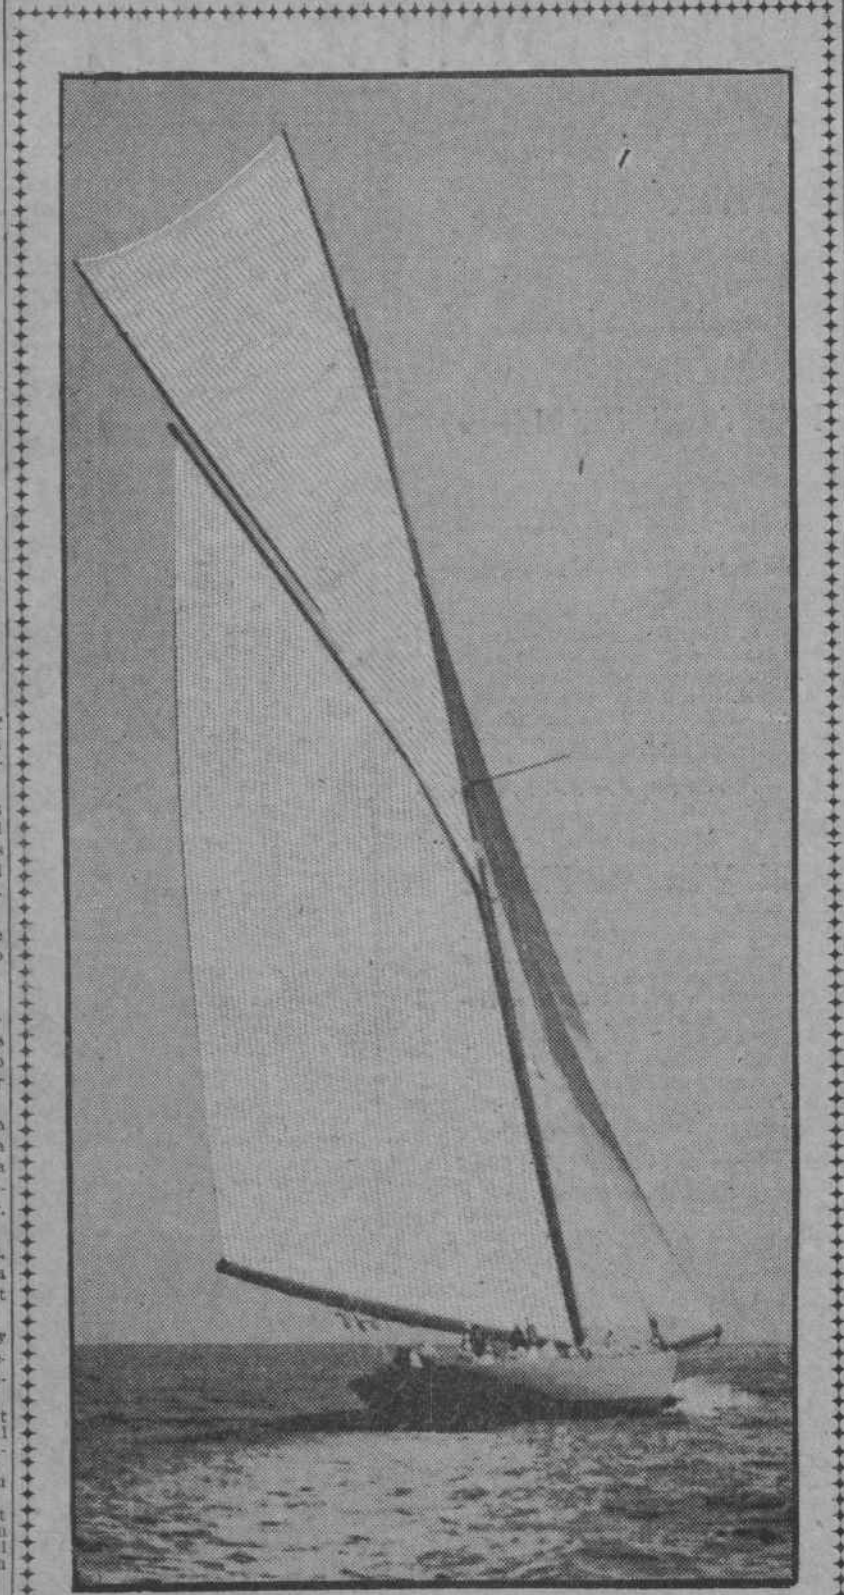

Charges Well Founded, but the Appraiser Declared Not to Blame.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Appraiser Wilbur F. Wakeman, of the port of New York, will be retained in office and Assistant Appraiser Sherwood will be removed. Secretary Chase so recommended to President McKinley, and these recommendations have been approved. Mr. Wakeman must, however, give up his position as secretary of the American Fair.

The report of the Special Commission appointed to investigate the charges against Mr. Wakeman has been received. It appears from the same that Mr. Wakeman had been guilty of no crime. At the present time there is no direct method of communication between the appraisers on basis and their superiors in the stations. Brooklyn has had such a signal system for years, and it works well.

Court Restores His Family Name. Justice Scott, in the Supreme Court, yesterday, granted Charles Henry Carowsky, of No. 116 West One Hundred and First street, permission to assume the name of Carowsky after October 1, 1899. Carowsky says that his father enlisted as a United States soldier when the Mexican War broke out under the name of Carowsky, although his real name was Raygold.

SHAMROCK GETS A MONSTER BOOM

Showing the Fine Fit of Shamrock's Sails and the Slight Wake She Leaves.

Changing the Challenger's Spars to Accommodate a Larger Suit of Sails—Columbia Shows Her Quality at New Rochelle.

Among the craft of the Irish fleet, as the Shamrock and her tugs, tenders, etc., are called, is a particularly big, ugly, square-ended barge, which they call the Ulster. For three days this barge has been anchored in the Horseshoe, its decks littered with gigantic tubes and timbers. These are the new spars of the challenging yacht. Some of them, by special permission of the military authorities, have been dumped on the army dock, but there are enough left to outfit half a dozen ships. Shamrock is a heavy swell among boats and needs as many spars as any other kind of a swell.

The yacht's crew was busy yesterday preparing to change her boom, topmast and bowsprit for larger sticks of hollow steel, aluminum, bronze, or whatever the metal is that holds the giant sails against the wind. The sails Shamrock has worn during her practice sails last week are large enough in all conscience, but they really were knickerbockers compared even with the suit she dons next week, to say nothing of the still more extensive canvas she will use during the real races. The boom she had on until yesterday seemed to be about 105 feet long, and the one that was hoisted from its resting place on the Ulster appears to be about three feet longer.

American yachtsmen are feeling much easier about the race than they were at the beginning of the week. Her splendid showing with the wind at her bow from twelve to fifteen knots, the perfection of the fit of her sails and the facility with which she was sent almost into the eye of the wind alarmed the worshippers of Columbia. It was only when Shamrock began to loll about in the light winds that they ceased to fear the visitor. The chances for light winds are good, and much blow, and as Columbia is the greatest light weather boat in the whole series this is one element of chance in her favor.

The Columbia gave an exhibition of her peculiar abilities yesterday. The day was almost dead. Only two things were moving under sail on the sound. One of these was Defender, which barely crawled, while the other was Columbia, which managed to sail along at a decent pace. The small fry of sloops and schooners could not do anything. On the other hand, it must be remembered that Columbia beat Defender in a good, stiff blow, and even Sir Thomas Lipton says Defender is the best boat leaving out Shamrock and Columbia—that has ever sailed. It is not surprising therefore that Columbia's adherents have full confidence in the Yankee boat.

The Shamrock side there is besides her marvelous performance in the blow the fact that her foul bottom was particularly smooth in the army dock, and it is quite conceivable that when she is clean her larger sails will drag her along on wind that would not give her steerage way now. At least there are no symptoms of discouragement on the part of Sir Thomas and his company.

NEW ROCHELLE, Sept. 9.—The cup defender Columbia took two spins up the Sound to-day for the purpose of trying the new head sails that were bent last night. These sails are of much lighter material than those heretofore used on the flyer, and were evidently carefully designed, for they seemed to draw perfectly.

At 10:05 this morning C. Oliver Iselin and Herbert C. Leeds, the well-known amateur yachtmen, boarded the yacht, and ten minutes later she dropped her mooring and started across the Sound. The wind, which was west and fairly strong at the start, decreased rapidly, and the yacht practically breezed freewheeling. A little and she made the second leg of a triangular course from Red Spring Buoy to Parsonage Point, and it took nearly two hours to make the last leg of the course from Parsonage Point to her mooring off Freeman Point.

This afternoon Mr. Iselin took the yacht over the same course, but he was fated to disappointment, and, after drifting around the Sound until nearly 7 o'clock, the yacht crept back to her mooring, followed a few minutes later by the gallant old Defender, who had just run up from City Island, where she had received another coat of paint. On Monday the two yachts will sail a race over the eastward triangular course to Captain's Island. It is hoped that the boats will be favored with a good stiff breeze that will thoroughly test the new sails.

Southern Pacific at Paris Exposition. The Southern Pacific Railroad will expend over $50,000 in making an exhibit of the resources of California at the Paris Exposition. It is its intention to make one of the most extensive exhibits that will be shown by any railroad in the world.

News Boiled Down. The Campbell Printing Press Company, of Plainfield, has been tied up as the result of a lawsuit brought by the Melrose Press Company, of Chicago, for the infringement of a patent.

Joseph L. Bergen and James Huff, of Brooklyn, were painfully injured in a runaway accident at Sea Cliff, L. I., yesterday.

Alfred Kohler, seven years old, died yesterday as the result of burns which he received Friday night.

The strike of the silk ribbon weavers, of College Point, has ended, the men accepting their employment.

Thomas Matthews, of Newark, was found bleeding and unconscious yesterday in that city. He said that a negro had beaten and robbed him.

Henry McLaughlin, a sailor on the City of Rome, fell overboard at Pier 54 yesterday and was drowned.

Reuben Banks, clinging to the gate of a moving "L" car in Brooklyn, was terribly bruised.

James Short, who was knocked down and dragged by a car on the Bowers Friday night, will live. His leg is crushed and he has slight internal injuries.

The body of the man who was killed on the railroad at Aqueduct, L. I., was identified as that of Gottlieb Seidel, of No. 1295 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Kate Wiley, who says she lived in No. 174 East Ninety-sixth street, was held in $500 bail for trial in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday on a charge of stealing jewelry from a department store.

John H. Kohler, of No. 202 West Twelfth street, night clerk at the General Post Office stamp window, has been suspended, pending an investigation of accounts.

Lee Wah, who alleged opium den at No. 496 Seventh avenue, was raided Friday night, was the only one to appear yesterday in the West Side Court. Magistrate Ford ordered the bonds of six other prisoners detained. Frank J. Farrell, who was before the Mast Committee, was the bondsman.

Explosion Injures Two Men. A small fire in the last factory of the Stewart & Potter Company, on the ground floor of No. 191 Worth street, yesterday, injured two of the workmen. The fire was supposedly caused by spontaneous combustion in the hot air pipes at the rear of the room, and the two men injured were standing near where the explosion occurred. The sudden rush of flame slightly burned Joseph Marsh, of No. 41 Oliver street, about the face and arms, and also struck the hair and beard of Rolland Reed, of No. 703 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn.

PRINCE HUNTING FOR A "BEST MAN."

He Finally Gives the Job to the Son of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer.

NEWPORT PEEPS AT HIM.

He Goes on Parade with Miss Grant, While Scores of Eyes Feast on Him.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 9.—Prince Cantacuzene, who is to wed Miss Grant, took a stroll on Bellevue avenue this afternoon with his fiancée. He called and signed his name on the Casino register while a big crowd stood at the entrance to get a peep at a real prince.

It was announced to-night that he had selected Grand Duke Cyril as his best man, but that the latter, finding it impossible to be present, requested Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, to take his place.

Count Cassini, in turn, finding it impossible to accept the job, assigned the honor to Mr. Honore Palmer, cousin of the bride, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer.

According to Russian custom, the Grand Duke Vladimir, who is expected to be present at the wedding, should perform the duties of best man to the Prince. But in this case the actual duties of the position will devolve on young Mr. Palmer.

This best man feature of the coming international marriage is a most complicated affair, but Mrs. Potter Palmer is determined upon being matters out all right at the finish. Mrs. Palmer gave a young people's dinner to-night at her villa in honor of the Prince and of his prospective bride. Only six guests were present.

The Prince has given a set of silver cups to be played for by the young polo players at Newport, talking this morning to show his appreciation of courtesies extended to him.

TALKED TO THE CASHIER AND GOT A BEATING. When Officer O'Brien Went to Investigate He Was Savagely Attacked by Seven Women.

After Donato Vantulo, aged forty-five, of No. 2167 First avenue, had eaten a meal in the restaurant of Joseph Bastiglione, at No. 2163 Second avenue, on Friday night, he began to talk with the cashier, who is a niece of Bastiglione.

The proprietor objected to Vantulo's conversation with the young woman, and with three other men threw him to the floor and beat him severely. Vantulo finally managed to escape and tell his story to Policeman John J. O'Brien, who went to the restaurant with the victim of the assault.

In an upper room of the establishment O'Brien found four men and seven women, who set upon him savagely. He whistled for help, and when aid came the officers arrested Anthony Murphy, aged eighteen, of No. 2163 First avenue; Ralph Dodge, aged twenty-eight, James Aldridge, thirty-four, a cook, and Bastiglione, the restaurant keeper. All the women escaped. The four men were taken to the police station and held in $500 each for trial.

WHAT IS THE NAME OF THE RAILWAY COMPANY? Should It Be Known as the Traction or Street Railway Company?

The question whether the Metropolitan Traction Company and the Metropolitan Street Railway Company are one and the same was brought before Justice Glidder in the Supreme Court yesterday on a motion made by Pincus L. Weinberger, the plaintiff in an action brought against the Metropolitan Traction Company for leave to amend his summons and complaint, which while the name of the defendant is that of Metropolitan Street Railway Company.

The defendant corporation claimed that they were separate and distinct corporations, and that the Street Railway Company had not been served with the summons and complaint, while the Traction Company had been served, appeared, and answered.

Justice Glidder directed a reference to find out which is the correct title.

LOST POWER OF SPEECH; NOW LEARNING TO TALK. New Yorker Shot Himself in Philadelphia, and His Identity Was Long a Mystery.

Abraham Reingold, of No. 3816 Park avenue, is slowly learning to talk again. Two weeks ago he shot himself through the head in Philadelphia, and his power of speech was lost. He was able to work on the alphabet and all the streets of New York, a physician learned Reingold's name and address and sent to this city for his brother David.

Abraham Reingold was brought home from Philadelphia yesterday. He had been in that city for several days, and he said that he had learned to talk again. He said that he had learned to talk again.

SEALSKIN GARMENTS. Of all fur garments, the seal skin is deservedly the most popular and stylish for all-around wear. Its soft, lustrous finish harmonizes with all other accessories of adornment. The seal skin is Hall's particular specialty, and his season's display of plain and trimmed garments will surpass all previous offerings. The prices for the best London dye and beautiful, lustrous-finish garments range from $100 upward.

PERSIAN LAMB. This fur is particularly recommended where the more pretentious furs are not desired. It will give longer service and can be worn upon more occasions than any other fur. For richness and refinement of texture, it is unequalled. The fur of the Persian lamb is now, and always will be, the fur of the fashionable and well-dressed. A large variety of garments and small-wear pieces are offered now at prices ranging from $20 to $175 for Coats and $30 to $100 for Capes, according to length and quality.

FUR COLLARETTES. This collection shows in a most pleasing manner the careful selection which is characteristic of Hall's methods. Every piece indicates a knowledge of fashion, effort and comfort. The assortment comprises—Chinchilla, Seal skin, Minx, Alaska Sable, Skunk, Stone Marten, Persian Lamb, Hudson Bay, and Russian Sable, from $25 up, and in the lower priced furs, such as Electric Seal (Conv), Grete, Krimmer, Natural and Dyed Raccoon and various combinations, $8 and upward.

FUR NECK SCARFS. If every woman, young and old, does not possess a fashionable fur neck piece, with a cluster of tails, this winter, it will not do. No lady can afford to be without something for somebody, and at prices that will make any article the temptation bargain irresistible. Russian Sable, $20; Skunk, $15; Minx, $10; Seal skin, $5; Persian Lamb, $12; Hudson Bay Sable, $10; Court (Electric Seal).

ALL THROUGH THE SEASON. Mr. Hall will sell high-grade, valuable Domestic and Imported Furs and Fur Garments at prices fully 25 per cent lower than any other house, and the reputation of this house will become more and more widely known and recognized in connection with the present special low prices can pay a deposit and goods will be held for future delivery.

REMODELING DEPT. Now is the time to have your fur repaired and remodeled, as the Summer prices still prevail. Telephone or send a postal card and goods will be called for.

The Coming Season's Fashions in Furs

Fur Garments and Furs of Every Description to Be More Fashionable This Season Than for Many Years Past.

THE ANTICIPATED SCARCITY OF SEAL-SKINS AND HIGHER PRICES NOT REALIZED.

How to Obtain the Choice of the World's Markets Now at Low Prices.

WHAT W. H. HALL, THE FURRIER, HAS DONE FOR WEARERS OF FURS.

Inaugurating the Season with Last Year's Low Prices.

Almost every woman delights in the possession of that most beautiful of all outer garments—namely, a seal skin jacket, coat or wrap; and those who possess one are the admired and envied of their sex; hence the almost universal interest which seal skin topics excite among fashion's followers.

It was stated last year and the year previous by many dealers that the law prohibiting the importation of seal skins into the country would force the demand away beyond the supply. One dealer even went so far as to advertise that he would then and there make all the profit he could out of his stock on hand, and advanced his prices $25 a garment.

W. H. Hall, the Furrier, opposed strenuously all attempts to corner the market, and in an interview published at the time in the leading papers said: "I do not anticipate any particular change in the price of seal garments on account of the new sealing law. I have never yet known of such an attempt being made to restrict the supply of any article that the public wants without causing a great increase in illegitimate production. I shall continue to mark the prices of my seal skin garments down to the season advance, as has been my custom for years, and I predict that the opening prices next (this) season will be as low if not lower than the opening prices of 1897 and 1898."

In substantiation of his views, Mr. Hall offered to contract to furnish seal skins at the then prevailing low prices and deliver the goods any time during the season.

The wholesale market to-day proves his knowledge of trade conditions and foresight. The prices prevailing now are as low as those that governed the market at the time the new sealing law was passed. Fully 100,000 skins were ordered for this country before this law was enacted, which, taken together with the stock in this market at that time, prevents any scarcity for at least two years to come.

It will be seen from the foregoing that it remained for Mr. Hall to take an absolute and unequivocal stand, and his position in the last season's advance, with his aggressive business methods will understand how readily he stepped forward and championed low prices. His efforts will no doubt prevent selfish interests from imposing upon a credulous people or allying and beguiling the public.

With the opening of his new building on Sixth avenue, W. H. Hall became more steadfast than ever in his determination to break down the prevailing custom of the retail fur trade to exact exorbitant profits, and from this determination and policy he has never once deviated. His aim is the same today as when he started in business nearly fifty years ago, and he hits the mark just as squarely now as at the beginning. His rule is to give the best in furs for the least money, and also to give the best the market produces. Adherence to this rule has won for this house the highest reputation for its Domestic and Imported Furs, and seal skin garments.

The exceptionally low prices that Mr. Hall has decided upon for the opening of the fur season, in accordance with his promise of last year, will present a very favorable opportunity to purchase Seal skins and Fur garments of every description much below the midwinter advance.

CROWN RUSSIAN SABLE. The Hall collection of this rare, beautiful and most expensive of all fur varieties a choice assortment of Coats, Collarettas, Muffs and special pieces for neckwear, ranging in price from $50 to $500.

HUDSON BAY SABLES are shown in a great variety, which he has been industriously gathering during the past Summer, all of which will be offered now at prices ranging from $20 for Muffs and Neck Pieces to $100 and upward for the more elaborate garments.

DARK EASTERN MINK has continued to win favor for the past two seasons as the most elegant, serviceable and comfortable of all furs. The seal skin is Hall's particular specialty, and his season's display of plain and trimmed garments will surpass all previous offerings. The prices for the best London dye and beautiful, lustrous-finish garments range from $100 upward.

A MILLIONAIRE SAVED!

Mastery and Removal of CANCER.

Tumors, Growths, Malignant Skin Diseases & Ulcers

Dr. S. Andral Kilmer.

DeCancerizing Removal System

Without the Use of the Knife (Non-Surgical).

Physicians and Surgeons Please Make Note where to send your Cancer Cases.

Since the sad death of my father, Daniel Kilmer, of Cobleskill, Schoharie Co., N. Y., of cancer, 38 years ago, I have thoroughly investigated, at my private Laboratories, and studied cancer in all forms until I have discovered their CAUSE, and hence have been able to formulate a positive, perfect and scientific cure for this deadly disease.

Much has been said and written about the cause and nature of cancer, its means of cure, etc., and many experiments made by caustics, the eating and plaster processes, the knife and internal curetting.

The similarity of structure in plants and animals tends to show a common origin for all organic life. I was the first man to make the discovery, seven years ago, that fungus growths and toadstools on stumps and bunches on trees are similar in nature to cancers, tumors and growths on the human body.

Cancer is a living fungus growth, and receives nourishment and thrives through innumerable minute rootlets and germs embedded within human flesh. Eating takes out only the visible part of it; cutting leaves many to start up again, as the exact extent of the disease cannot be located by the eye. Hence none of these methods can be safely recommended.

My system kills the living monster and penetrates every living rootlet and germ. This cancer fungus growth once dead, it gradually loosens its grasp and comes off the body like a scab from a healed sore. The treatment is easy, yet perfect and sure.

Never neglect yourself. Cancer (carcinoma) often starts in the form of a bunch of sores, especially about the glands of the breast, under the arm, or on the neck, etc. Sometimes what has appeared to be a mere pimple or sore develops into cancer. The growth is sometimes slow, sometimes very rapid. A peculiar feeling as of itching, twinging, stinging during pain, etc., is apt to manifest itself.

Waterbury, N. Y., July 15, 1899. I am of English descent, but for many years have resided in Waterbury, Onondaga County, N. Y., and am well known in the country over. My nephew, Charlemagne Tower, of Philadelphia, Pa., is Ambassador to Russia under the McKinley Administration.

Up to the time this malignant difficulty developed in the glands on the right side of my neck and throat, I considered myself a comparatively well man, and always attended to my usual vocations. My cancer was 2½ inches high, 1½ inches wide, ¾ inch deep, and came out in a very short time after placing myself under Dr. S. Andral Kilmer's DeCancerizing Removal Treatment. The location is now entirely healed, and I go home happy.

Any one who is suffering from cancer or tumor, I would highly recommend them to go to Dr. S. Andral Kilmer at once. Do not delay.

How and Where People's Lives Are Now Saved.

Mrs. Singlemeyer, 147 Skillman Ave., Brooklyn, Greater New York, 43 lb. Schirrus or Stone Cancer Tumor of right breast and side.

Mrs. Theodore R. Buchanan, Elmira, N. Y., wife of a prominent G. A. R. Officer. A perfect physical wreck from swelling carcinoma (cancer) on the ribs. This horrid, destructive mass may be seen in a jar.

Mrs. Brown Barnes, Virgil St., Binghamton, N. Y. Malignant ulcer or eating cancer of the uterus. Under the prevailing, ordinary treatments it is no wonder her father died of cancer.

Mrs. J. Philpot, Waterville, N. Y. Twice unsuccessfully operated upon in St. Elizabeth's Hospital for cancer growths upon eyelids. She now is well. No scar. This malignant fungus may be seen at the Sanatorium. Write or call upon her.

Mrs. Cynthia Beebe, head nurse at Dr. S. Andral Kilmer's Greater New York Cancer and Tumor Sanatorium, Jamaica, L. I., formerly of Cazenovia, N. Y. Purple cavity, forming cancer in the shoulder. Removed to stay removed.

Mrs. Alfred Le Suer, Sidney, N. Y. mother of the prominent Dr. Le Suer, Oneonta, N. Y. Carcinoma (cancerous or malignant growth) filled the space under the tongue and the lip. Out, three years ago. Healed perfectly.

These patients may be seen or written to. These people feel that their names and cases ought to be reported, so the thousands may know where to come to be saved.
